Baw Dust Bill's" Brindle Bow-Wow Causes Trouble.

GESTLE WILLIAM DRAWS A KNIFE

Two Men Supposed to Have Disposed H Severely Consured by the Owner of the Cashe and Something of a High Old Time is Indelged in.

Last evening at the Manhattan club saloon there was a tively drama of two acts of two scenes each, and the plot of the piece was something superb, while the sequel was rather rough on one of the netors, namely, "Sawdust Bill." The title might have been "Sawdust Bill and His the cross, the cruz for crucifying, but it Brindle Bow Wow." The drama, as has come to have a variety of meaning enacted, brought out the following, as a monument, a crucifix, the atonefacts: Some time ago "Sawdust ment, the Christian religion itself, any Bill" came into possession of a brin- suffering for Christ's sake, anything that dle pappy, which he prized very highly, and which bade fair to be a fighter. Johnny Jones saw that dog.
and so did Billy Gibson, and sportsman phrase for a contest dishonsoon they formed a strong liking estly decided. for it. Now. Bill claims that how-wow for $10, and he didn't see either the joke or the money.

Yesterday afternoon Bill did a little detective work in the vicinity of Jones' store, and found, as he supposed, a clew to the whereabouts of his dog, and last evening went to Jones' house and told him someone was at the store and wanted to see him. In Jones' absence Bill looked about the premises for his dog, but in vain. Well, he went to the Manhattan, and there met the enraged Jones.

Artificial Honoycombs

An interesting east side street vender of the German quarter is a stout, clean seven, neatly dressed man who bears his head a shining tin pan filled with golden honeycomb. A spotless white head cushion receives the bottom of the pan, and a knife handle shows in air above the honeycomb. The latter. well as its sweet contents, looks gentine, and doubtless east side Germans are tempted by the sight and are in confortable ignorance of the fact that arti-Scial honeycombs are nowadays filled with artificial honey, with the result of deceiving all save the bees, -New York ources and Variety of Information It is Likely to Furnish.

The great dictionaries are a library in themselves and furnish an exhaustless source of information. A study of a single word like cross in the Century Dictionary shows the resources and variety of information that a familiar word may furnish. There are 154 columns devoted to this word and its combinations. There are 24 pictorial illustrations. All in all there are 257 different words made out of cross which have to be defined. In the great Oxford Dictionary there are 11 pages given to this word, or twice as much as in the Century. In the Century the same ly different sets of definitions to the word itself.

Queer Phenomena of Falling Bodies. I am unable to say who first noticed the peculiar caprices of a stone or other heavy body dropped from the top of a high tower, but it is nevertheless a curislightly to the east of the perpendicular line. Persons of inquiring turn of mind who ask why this is as it is may find an maswer in the following: All falling bodes partake of the earth's eastward motion to a greater or lesser extent. Therefore during the time eccupied by a stone in falling from the top of a high tower or other eminance the carth's rotary motion has carried it an appreciable dis-tance to the cast. The initial impetus of the stone has carried it to the eastward also, therefore it strikes the earth to the cast of the perpendicular, varying in degree according to the height from which it has fallen.

A curious article on this subject may be found in the Leipsie Zeitung of May 9, 1889, page 3. The author of the article, who has given it the title of "The Nonperpendicularity of High Towers," claims that the tower on St. Peter's cathedral at Rome leans 18 inches to the east .- St. Louis Republic.

A Siegular Colocidence.

The chaplain of an American jail vouches for the following. A little boy was taken by his parents to visit the prison, and on passing one of the cells in which a notorious criminal had been incarcerated his father playfully pushed him in and closed the door upon him. The child, overcome by some vague ter-ror, screamed aloud and could scarcely be comforted by his mother's caresses.

Years passed. The lad half thought-lessly fell into crime and was only recalled to his better nature on finding himself, having been sentenced to a term of imprisonment, in the identical cell into which he had been momentarily thrust as a child.

> > Sanke Charming.

A smalle charmer can, by a simple motion of his hand, make a moving snake stop instantly. The reason is this:

The snake is a most timid animal. His eyes, while dull to color and form, are quick to motion, especially if it is rapid. too near him, he gets frightened and scurrio off, while at certain distances the motion state him if he be moving.

He stops from astonishment, fear or the wish to see what it is that moves, Hence he glides on unconsciour of the charmer's presence near him so long as the latter remains quiet; the spake does not know him from a tree or a rock. But when he gives a sudden evidence of life the snake is astonished and immediately remains stock still.

In India and Africa the charmers pretend the snakes dance to the runsic but they do not, for they never hear it. A snake has no external ears, and perhaps gives evidence of sound only through its skin, when sound causes bodies in contact with him to vibrate.

They hear also through the nerves of the tongue, but do not at all comprehend sound as we do. However, the snake's eyes are very much alive to the motions of the charmer, or to the moving drumsticks of his confederate, and being alarmed be attempts to strike.

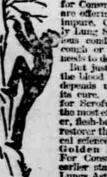

A dancing colga (and no other snakes Turk as he site, to the sword of the glad- dance) is simply a cobra alarmed and in ator, to the expert with his telescope, to a posture to attack. He is not dancing to the music, but is making ready to assail the charmer.-Harrison's Family Magazine.

Ills First Experience.

John Smith was a clerk who had to work the telephone which had been newly fitted at his office. He will never forget his first experience with the instrument. On hearing the clatter of the ous fact that such objects invariably fail | bell he took down the receiver and heard his employer's voice asking for information concerning business. John was under the impression that as his employer was two miles away he ought to put his hand to his mouth like an ancient mariner on the stage, who is paid sixpence a night to do "Ship, aboy!" business. He accordingly thundered his answer into the transmitter. The answer came, "I don't understand you at all."

Smith essayed again and again, but with no better result. A happy thought struck him when he had recovered his wind after the tenth blast, and he softly whispered to himself, "I wonder if the old idiot is deaf," His hair rose slowly on end as he heard the sound of his governor's voice coming softly from the receiver, "No, John, the old idiot is not deaf, and you can take a fortnight's notice." John now declares that telephones are frauds.-Pittsburg Disputch.
